FIGURES

Figures should be numbered consecutively throughout the paper, without referencing the section in which they appear. It is recommended to paste images in .gif or .jpg format. Ensure that all figures fit within the page margins and are properly referenced within the text. All figures must be centered on the page. Avoid using phrases like “in the above figure” or “the figure below,” or any other directional references.

Figure captions must appear below the figures. The “Source” should be indicated immediately below the figure caption. Only the word ‘Source’ will be italicised with capital S; left aligned, Times New Roman 12, followed by colon (:).

All figures must be provided at the appropriate resolution. Please avoid inserting linked diagrams from other software, as they can create issues during typesetting. Figures should be placed at the desired location within the text. The figure below demonstrates the correct placement of figures.

TABLES

Number each table consecutively throughout the paper. Create tables using the Table option in your word processing software; avoid using tabs or spaces for alignment. Ensure that all tables fit within the page margins and are properly referenced within the text. Avoid phrases like “in the above table” or “the table below” or any other directional references. Tables must be submitted in an editable format.

HYPOTHESES (If applicable)

State each hypothesis clearly and separately. Hypotheses should be indicated by using subscripts. Assign each a distinct label, such as "H₁" or a combination label like "H_{1a}" for sub-hypotheses. Examples are as follows.

H₁: There is a positive correlation between the availability of hours for work and the productivity of employees.

H_{1a}: Worker satisfaction increases worker productivity.

STATISTICAL SIGNIFICANCE

When reporting statistical significance, include the significance levels in separate footnotes stacked beneath the standard table footnotes.

EQUATIONS

Equations should be numbered consecutively, with the numbers enclosed in brackets on the right. Leave single spacing above and below each equation, as demonstrated in equation (1). Do not insert equations as images (e.g., Print Screen or .jpg format). See the example below:

Example:

$$r_i - r_j = \beta_i (r_M - r_f), i=1,2, \dots, n \quad (1)$$

CITATIONS

Every work listed in the references must be cited in the text, and every in-text citation must have a corresponding reference. All citations and references must adhere to APA 7th edition guidelines. (American Psychological Association 7th edition – more information <http://www.apastyle.org/>).

DECLARATION OF GENERATIVE AI IN SCIENTIFIC WRITING

When authors use generative AI or AI-assisted technologies in the writing process, these tools should only be employed to improve the readability and language of the work. The use of such technologies must involve human oversight and control, with authors carefully reviewing and editing the output. Authors remain fully responsible and accountable for the content of their work.

Authors must disclose any use of AI and AI-assisted technologies, and a corresponding statement will be included in the published work. Additionally, AI and AI-assisted technologies should not be credited as an author or co-author, nor cited as an author.

CONCLUSION

Professionally presenting your work is essential, and the above guidelines are intended to support you in achieving that standard. Adhering to these guidelines will not only enhance the quality and presentation of your paper but will also facilitate an efficient review and publication process. Please be advised that, upon submission of your final manuscript, the similarity index will be checked via Turnitin as part of the submission review process. We appreciate your cooperation and look forward to receiving your submission.
